LOWER CABOT

A few of the relatives and friends of Mrs. William Adams convened at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Haines, Lower Cabot, April 2, to celebrate her eighty-sixth birthday. She is the daughter of one of our old-time honored residents, James Blanchard. She and her youngest sister are the only surviving members of a once numerous family. The afternoon passed very pleasantly with the aid of vocal and instrumental music, together with the following original poem by Mrs. G. H. Goodale.

Retrospection.
Eighty-six years old to-day,
Alas! and can it be
That I my threescore years and ten
Have lived, the time allotted me?
Ten, too, another score of years
Of borrowed time, save four,
I've lived, and none save He who knows
All things
Can tell how many more
Are yet for me in store.

But be they long or be they short,
I still will trust in Thee
To bring me safely into port
My guide and pilot be.
And so I'm looking forward
To the haven port of rest,
For most of life has been of me,
But Heaven, which is the best,
Lies just beyond—sweet rest.

Memory carries me backward
On this my anniversary day,
To the happy scenes of childhood
Where I spent the hours in play.
How we roamed o'er field and meadow
And through the forest wild
To gather fruits and flowers rare
Amongst myriads sweet and mild,
A happy care-free child.

And when I think of those glad hours,
So full of girlish glee,
I can but earnestly exclaim,
Childhood! come back to me,
Come back to me, oh golden days!
Why are ye so soon flown?
'Tis but a dream, and yet, ye're gone,
And I must roam
My weary way alone.

The dear old home on the hillside,
The old log cabin house
Where our own dear mother used to dwell,
Oh the changes, how they come,
And how they make the heart ache,
As the forms go trouping by,
Of friends lost but not forgotten,
Watching for you and I
From the portals in the sky.

And as memory carries me on
Adown the vista of the years,
I leave the child behind me
And the maiden now appears,
Filled with holy aspirations,
With a heart so pure and light
That the world seems very beautiful
And life looks sweet and bright.
Most surely this is right.

Another form then comes to view,
A stalwart, manly form,
I seem to hear the chime of bells
Ring out, one summer's morn.
And I think, my dearest sister,
To remember, you'll be able,
And I wed my own sweet William,
At the early breakfast table
After reading of the Bible.

Then came such days of happiness
That I in those glad hours
Forgot the path of life could not
Always be strewn with flowers.
And when the little daughter came,
He filled us with delight
To watch her little winning ways—
Ah! these were days so bright,
So very, very bright.

Where are those now, once loved so much?
Alas! they are no more,
They're reaching out, across the stream,
To row my frail barque o'er,
And o'er the billows, dashing high,
He'll ever be my protection;
He's promised ever to be nigh,
Oh, fondest recollection
Of this, my retrospection.

For now I know that smiles and tears
Like rain and sunshine given,
Form bows of promise in our sky
To guide us home to heaven.
And so I'm looking forward
To the haven port of rest,
For most of life has been of me,
But Heaven, which is the best,
Lies just beyond—sweet rest.

Words to Freeze the Soul.
"Your son has consumption. His case is hopeless." These appalling words were spoken to Geo. E. Blvens, a leading merchant of Springfield, N. C., by two expert doctors—one a lung specialist. Then was shown the wonderful power of Dr. King's New Discovery. "After three weeks' use," writes Mr. Blvens, "he was as well as ever. I would not take all the money in the world for what it did for my boy." Infallible for coughs and colds, it's the safest, surest cure of desperate lung diseases on earth. 50c and $1.00 at Red Cross Pharmacy. Guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottle free.

INDIANS IN OKLAHOMA.
On The Road to The Poor-House According to This Observer.

When cases of squatter occupancy on Indian lands, or Indian claims on treaty land, came before Clark, our first Indian commissioner, says Mr. Hough, he stood for a square deal—and justice stern to the Indian. The white man came to hate Clark because of his honesty and few of them chose to abide by his decisions. He gained the confidence of the Indians and no one of them was ever known to appeal from his decision.

In 1813 all these despairing Indians concluded to go to St. Louis and ask the red-headed chief, as Clark was called, what was best for them to do. This was one of our greatest Indian councils. It was the real foundation of these Indian lawsuits which are now going on in Oklahoma.

Since 1879 the United States had tried eight distinct policies upon him and it has been small wonder if he has been confused. First his tribes were treated as independent nations. Next came the trading post scheme; then the ward idea with the war department as guardian, to be superseded in 1849, by the interior department. As a fifth move the red men in each state were put under a guardian, (until President Grant abolished the system in 1869) under a superintendent, with, generally, the commonwealth's governor for superintendent.

That was followed by the reservation plan which fell before the constant demand for more land by prospective white settlers and this was finally superseded by a theory that the Indian could be made into a farmer—implements, seed, clothing, and rations being issued to each red man. Then, as an eighth and last resort, we fell back upon the idea of education.

There may be some in the benighted East who fancy the Indians of Oklahoma to be belated and blanketed havers of wood and drawers of water, but as a matter of fact, the term Indian does not mean real Indian today. Black blood is not socially resolved in any part of the United States today, but Indian blood constitutes no social disqualification; rather to the contrary, speaking at least for this part of the country, because each Indian, man, woman and child, has a farm, and many of the farms have rich oil wells and coal mines on them now.

Yet no full-blooded Indian ever understood any such thing as individual ownership of land. That being so, and the Indian always being sure that there was more land somewhere else, he was ever ready to sell his own little-valued title to the soil to as many different men as would offer him the price. The result is that in parts of Oklahoma the ground has been owned or claimed by England,

RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated by Barre People.

Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one special kidney medicine that cures permanently and there is plenty of proof right here in Barre.

Here is the testimony of one who used Doan's Kidney Pills years ago, and now states that the cure was lasting.

M. I. Spaulding, painter, 16 Seminary street, Barre, Vt., says: "I had more or less kidney trouble for four or five years and think it was the result of the conditions to which I am subject at my work. At night my back would ache terribly and on this account I could not sleep. Dark spots floated before my eyes at times and the frequent passages of the kidney secretions plainly proved that my kidneys were at fault. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at E. A. Brown's drug store, disposed of the trouble. I take pleasure at all times in vouching for the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills and gladly confirm the statement I gave in their favor some three years ago."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Spillman Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
